Our Sustainability Approach

Helping people feel at home, no matter where they are, has been Curver's primary objective since the very beginning. But home is about far more than our own private space – it is the home we all share on this planet. Just like our private homes, there is simply no other home like it! So, when we consider ways of helping you truly feel at home, we always keep in mind that we cannot improve one home at the expense of the other. As we strive to brighten your private homes with smart, stylish designs and comfortable conveniences, we are also working to protect humanity's home by safeguarding our natural world.

We Cover 3 Main Sustainability Aspects

Environmental

Materials

Recycled materials represent what is arguably the most significant way our industry can positively impact the global sustainability challenge. They are also where we believe we can add most value. Curver is currently the largest user of recycled materials in the industry, and our ambitious goal: doubling our use of recycled materials by 2028. By using materials responsibly, we will help to tackle climate change, reduce plastic pollution, and protect natural environments on land and at sea.

Energy Efficiency

Our products already require less energy to produce than other materials, but that is just the first step. We are now investing in developing systems for smart energy consumption, while also transitioning to green renewable energy sources and utilizing efficient new technologies.

Product Development

We don't believe in wasteful single-use plastic. That is why we design robust plastic products intended to last for a lifetime, which are also 100% recyclable.

Social

Volunteering

We care deeply about giving back to our local communities, showing our respect in both words and deeds. Therefore, engaging with the community and volunteering to help people in need has become an integral part of our teams' daily activities.

Inclusivity

We value diverse skills, experiences, and perspectives, and believe in treating everyone fairly, regardless of gender, race, religion, age, or sexual orientation. It is a matter of pride that both our executive meetings and our production floor clearly reflect our commitment to inclusive hiring practices.

Governance

Transparency

We are always seeking better ways to share everything we do with our customers. In the last two years, we have developed special labels that make it even easier for you to understand the composition of our products at a glance.

International Standards

It is easy to talk the talk, but we also walk the walk, going the extra mile to comply with internationally-recognized environmental certifications and proudly partnering with leading sustainability organizations:

And we are also working to get:

Our Eco-friendly and Sustainable Offering

We use Post-Industrial and Post-Consumer plastic waste that have been carefully collected, sorted and processed for our innovative recycled ranges.

We offer bottles, food keepers and bento that allow the end-consumers to replace disposable plastics and packaging's by reusable ones.
